

Further consolidation of media ownership is not in the best interests of the American public. Media ownership is already narrowed; in many markets, there is in effect no competition. Allowing consolidation will only further erode competition and the possibility of promoting diversity of opinion. Remember, dissent is legitimized in the Constitution!